

What is PNN?

Penn News Network is the student-run news network of Penn High School. We are the source of information for many of Penn High School's students. We have a vital task: to make sure people know what is going on. And from this stems our motto: People Need News.

We do this not only through the news/announcements show, but also through our website, where we post web stories, and our digital signage, where we put announcements to keep people informed in a convenient and eye-catching way.
